

We are not disposed to say anything about the physiology of laughter, but we are prepared to affirm that as a condition of human existence there is no nobility of human experience that can match a good hearty laugh. There is something democratic about a laugh which makes it impossible to distinguish where there is a difference between a plebeian who is moved to merriment and a lordly greater tragedy could be perpetrated than to wrest the power of such from man's grasp. It is the one thing of exultancy compared with the lifting of laughter from life. If the conditions of this world could be such as to afford to every man the opportunity of a full enjoyment of a pure hearty real-of-laughter, there would be no need that other favors be conferred. His soul would be simple readiness that happy man would be able to live like the best men.—Bathurst Herald.

It is also now redressed by scientific and clean methods. It is a component of most of the woollen garments of to-day. The world does not grow enough wool to enable us to have a constant supply of the best quality of wool with the aid of shoddy. It is shoddy that has enabled the workmen to buy a new suit of clothes at the price of a week's wage. In the olden days an old all woollen garment was so expensive that it had to last its owner many years. It was a mark of a poor man. It is better hygiene for a man to buy two new shoddy suits a year than to buy an all wool garment which must last him two years. Most of the clothes we wear, a fact, contain a element of shoddy and, so far from being a mark of the better, it is a mark of the better.

To your pack of cards in two is regarded by some as a marvelous feat of strength, and yet the trick is possible to any one with fairly strong fingers. The secret of the trick lies in the fact that the entire pack is held at once, but in pretending to get a grip on the pack the strong man so manipulates the cards that they overlap. In this way but a single card is torn at a time, and once the surface is torn the rest is easy. To any one who can hold a pack of cards in one hand, the trick is easy, and while in olden times a single pack of cards was considered to be the mark of strength many of our strong men tear three and four packs at a time. The cards are restored to their original position, and being subjected to no examination, the trick escapes detection.

The finest botanical gardens in the world are lately claimed by Valencia, that city of "palms and pignoles" and statues. The stranger visiting the gardens for the first time will find his wonder and admiration excited by the appearance of the Arbutus and Myrica. The branches of this tree deep red in our weeping willow, and when a branch is sufficiently long its extremity is imbedded in the earth, takes root and in turn sends out more branches. This instance the operation has been repeated into the very low instances of a foot in diameter, and the length of the branch is about a foot, or eight, or ten, or twelve, or even a yard, as the soil is the most fertile.

"Hamlet" was the first play Sir Henry Irving saw as a boy. Samuel Phelps was in the title role. Some time afterward Phelps was persuaded to listen to a recitation by Irving, and after praising the young man the celebrated actor gave him this characteristic advice: "Young man, leave nothing to do with the stage. It is a bad profession."

"Well, Tommy, are you very good to your little sister?" asked the friend of the family.

"Sure," replied Tommy. "I eat all the candy 'cause it makes her sick."—Philadelphia Record.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

"They were playing a quiet rubber of just and had called for a new deck of cards. One of the players was an old man, a card player of years of experience. He took the old cards and shuffled and put them on the window ledge. "Throw them in the fire," said the young man who was his partner. "What?" said the elder. "Throw a pack of cards in the fire?" "Yes," said the young man. "I know what you are talking about. I wouldn't do it for $1,000." "Why?" "Superstition!" was the answer. "Burn a pack of cards and they'll never win any more." "That's the old superstition," said the first. "They're dead enough, but you never saw a gambler burn the cards or damn them or burn them or otherwise ill treat them. He'll burn the cards if he's a gambler and a bad player who'd do it. He was dwelling on velvet then. In a year he has a beggar, and he never won a game of pin mentioning forever after. It's a green respect, but gentlemen don't burn green respect. They won't burn packs of cards."

Douglas Jerrold, the celebrated W.M. said: There are three things that so much hurt a few heads or, having lost the power of reasoning, have become mental rascals: if he ever desires to get back again. These three things are books, unity, and umbrellas. I believe a certain fiction of the new assumes a remedy against the borrower, but it is not sufficient, and the man must be sufficiently insured to guard his reputation as plaintiff in such a suit over fairly succeeded against the whole some pre-views of society. Umbrellas may be designed about by colored states, but will not save a man from ruin. There may be laws that make such things ineffectual, but I am sure that the hissing contempt, the loud merriment in digestion, of all civilized society would subside and pour at the bloodless and the blood of the wretched man who would so obtain for him the restitution of a lent umbrella.

Often have painters and sculptors discussed the relative merits of painting and sculpture. A story is told of an artist who resented the disparaging comparisons made by a sculptor and laid a wager that he could within a given time paint a picture which should display the human figure as completely as any sculptor could.

The wager was accepted, and upon the appointed day a painting was produced which fulfilled all the conditions. It represented a warrior, his back to the spectator, standing over a sheet of water in the deepest surface of which were reflected his entire face and form. To the right side of the shoe, running forward and threw back a 100 length punch (knock) while a barrier performed a like office for the left side. The sculptor, of course, hunched over the money stacked, Paris down.

The Fall of the Comet.
It is one of the most wonderful of all the phenomena that occurred us in the study of nature that the tail of the comet, visible through such a vast space of space, is one of the most transparent of objects. The tail of the comet is much more transparent than the earth's atmosphere, as this at its base would in bulk act as an opaque curtain. But stars are seen almost as dis-thly through the comet's tail and through the adjacent atmosphere. Comets change their form and appearance with the utmost rapidity and fluently.

Legend of the Tulip.
Centuries ago, by the waters of the Bosphorus, the Persian lover sought flower with scarlet petals and heart of gold. We call it the tulip. To him it was the emblem of love. In Persia parts of Asia and on the shores of the Mediterranean the tulip grows wild. Today the tulip beds near Haarlem are among the wonders of that quaint Dutch town. Though once the symbol of love, in our modern floral language the tulip stands for inconstancy. So

LOCAL BRIEFS.

Edward Gregory has a copy of The Balance and Columbia Repository, published at Hudson, N. Y., January 26, 1902. The paper is in a unusually good state of preservation for its age. It is probably one of the oldest newspapers to be found in this part of the country.

About thirty lineum are repairing the Home Telephone company's line between Louisville and Owensboro. They have been camping on Allen's hill near town, for a week or more. They left Louisville the first of September, spending a large part of the time in this country.

H. J. May has again begun the erection of his blacksmith shop at the foot of First street. The first structure, when partly completed, was blown down in a storm.

"The Eternal City," a beautiful oratorio, curata by Chas. H. Gabriel, is being rehearsed by the Methodist church choir, under the direction of A. H. Murray, and will be rendered at the church on the evening of December 24, at which time there will be no preaching service. It will be the second cantata, rendered by the choir while Mr. Murray has been the leader. The first cantata, which was sung last year before a large audience, was the finest thing in vocal music ever heard here and "The Eternal City" promises to be a much greater musical treat.

Edward Bowman, treasurer of the Murray Roofing Tile company, was in Louisville Wednesday and Thursday and made a contract for a large order of the superior grade of roofing tile his company is making at their plant here.

The old brick tenement house, near the Henderson Rite shops, the last vestige of the once famous industry of oil making from the camel coal mined at Victoria, is being razed to the ground.

Our speed about two thousands miles an hour, so that we should circle the earth every 24 hours. This was the calculation of the greatest importance, because we would have to time our departure accurately in order to land where we wanted to. If we allowed our balloon to drift at all, it would miss its mark. It was likely that we should land somewhere over an ocean or over the land, and just as likely over Africa as over America. Figures were jotted down, and we then

"At this point I did some figuring myself. It seemed reasonable to me to suppose that, if I could jump seventy feet with little effort, I could jump a hundred times faster than I could on the earth. And I proved it. I pulsed out to the others a stamp of trees about a mile away, and then, asking them to time me, I jumped. My jump was about the young expectations, for I leaped into the air about thirty feet at each bound, alighted easily some sixty feet beyond, and took another bound, as simply as if it were the first. I was so sure that I was not the slightest weariness. I ran back and found that I had made the two miles in half fraction under three minutes; at that rate," said I, "I can run around the lake in the rate of eight miles an hour; and if your calculations are correct, and it is eight miles in diameter, it must be about twenty-five miles in circumference. I can, therefore, if I keep it up, beat you, and I can do it in forty minutes, and I'm going to do it."

"Two of the party volunteered to accompany me, and off we started at a good clip, the stop watches being out at the same time. We were soon in the midst of the exertion, if floating lightly in the air can be called exertion; and we ran along through the forests and across the plains with the ease and grace of greyhounds. We were not a little wind-blown, shaken our pace; but there appeared before us a deep gully, at the bottom of which was a stream. Here we came to a standstill. The gulch was quite fifty feet deep and nearly a hundred wide at the top; and as far as we could see, there was no better crossing in sight. Elated at our work, and feeling certain we could make the leap, we all ran at it together. Every bound we took was better than the previous one; and when we reached the edge of the arroyo, we sprang into the air like

The journey back was the reverse of the confluence a coming. The motor, however, and by operating the powerful machinery, we were enabled to make our landing within a very short distance of the spot we had left but little more than half a day before. The water was moonlight, the night was beautiful in the beautiful. We jumped ashore we lauded, and came down to the anchorage next morning."

TRY THIS EXPERIMENT.

Why a Redhot Poker Does Not in Boiling Water.

If a red hot poker be thrust into water it hisses and sputters; if boiling water there is no commotion. When, in the first experiment, water comes in contact with the iron there is a sudden and explosive generation of steam, which causes liquid to be scattered with a hissing noise, consequent upon the bursting of innumerable bubbles.

When, on the other hand, a poker thrust into boiling water, will already freely giving forth steam, introduction of the hot iron will further assisting steam production causes the poker to become surrounded by a sheath of vapor which effectually prevents the vapor from coming into actual contact with the metal.

This sheath of vapor is comparatively a bad conductor of heat, so that little heat passes from the iron to the water. There is no commotion, the poker can be withdrawn glowing brightly.

The stream was not more than ten feet wide, and I was about halfway across where we stood, there was no narrower place. I was about halfway across when I fancied I could make the leap, old man and I, and took a few slow back steps, and then ran toward the water, jumping into the air.

It was about that time that a bird, and landed at about twenty yards beyond me, and I saw it alight on a branch, allied with the ease of a feather, first, then with the grace of a cat, and with the poise of almost unceasing laughter. For they understood the reason before I did.

BRONCHITIS

Druggists Short and Haynes
Tell The People Quickest Means to Cure It.

Asked one day if his store, the question, "What is good for bronchitis?" a member of the above firm answered, "For years I have used cod liver oil, and I have been known to possess the most remarkable curative and healing properties for the throat, bronchial, and lung troubles of anything known to medicine, but on account of the price which evened up its curative principles, it has been impossible for many people to take enough of it into their systems to combat a thoroughly settled disease without clogging the system and upsetting the stomach."

"Now, however, continued this well known druggist, we have Vinol, which contains in a highly concentrated form all of the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil, actually taken from fresh cod's livers, without a drop of oil or grease to upset the stomach, and regardless of its work, and it is the greatest cure for all throat, bronchial and lung troubles known to medicine."

Miss Anna Ray writes us that after suffering for five years with bronchitis and trying all kinds of medicines without relief, Vinol cured her, and we have hundreds of just such letters.

We wish every person suffering from chronic colds, coughs, bronchitis, and every aged, weak, or convalescent person who needs a healing and strength-giving and blood-making tonic would try Vinol on our guarantee: I will return the purchase money if it fails. Short & Haynes, Druggists.

BABY'S AWFUL ITCHING ECZEMA

Sores All Over Face and Body—
Could Not Tell What She Looked Like—Unable to Sleep—Grew Worse Under Doctors.

CURED BY CUTICURA IN ONE MONTH

A grateful mother, in the following letter, tells of another of those marvelous cures by Cuticura. "When my baby was four months old her skin broke out with a humor. I took her to a doctor, who said it was eczema. He gave me medicine to give her, but she kept getting worse all the time. Her little face and body were so covered with sores and large scales you could not tell what she looked like. I had no other way but a worse case. Her face was being eaten away, and even her finger nails fell off. Then it itched so she could not sleep, and for many weary nights we could get no rest. At last we got Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After bathing her in warm water with the Soap, and then spreading on the Ointment with soft cloths, I saw a change in a week. The sores began to heal, and she could sleep at night, and in one month she had not one sore on her face or body. Any mother having children with eczema or humors will find a friend in Cuticura Soap and Ointment. (Signed) Mrs. Mary Sanders, 209 Spring St., Camden, N. J., Aug. 14, 1905."

The foregoing statement justifies the oft-repeated assertion that Cuticura Soap and Ointment afford instant relief, and permit sleep for baby and rest for tired mothers, and points to a speedy permanent cure when all else fails, in the most torturing, disgusting, itching, burning, bleeding, scaling, crusting, and pimply skin and scalp humors.

Cuticura Soap, Ointment, and Pills are sold everywhere. Write for free booklet and sample to "The Cuticura Soap Co., P.O. Box 100, Lowell, Mass., U.S.A."

Many Persons Have Catarrh of Kidney Or Catarrh of Bladder and Don't Know

President Newhof and War Correspondent Richards were Promptly Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. C. B. Newhof, 10 Belmont street, Albany, N. Y., President Merchants Club, writes:

"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said that it was catarrh caused by a cold. I was told that it would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years. I took Peru-na, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but I found to my relief that I soon began to mend. The irritation gradually subsided and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I may say, I mean, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peru-na."—C. B. Newhof.

Suffered From Catarrh of Kidney, Threatened With Nervous Collapse. Cured By Peru-na.

Mr. F. B. Richards, 600 E. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., War Correspondent, writes: "I recently spent a year in Cuba as a staff correspondent of the New York Sun. I was in charge of the Spanish fleet through the Spanish American War. The effect of the tropical climate and the nervous strain showed plainly on my return to the States. Lassitude, depression to the verge of melancholia, and increasing kidney trouble made me practically an invalid. This undesirable condition continued, despite the best of treatment."

Finally a brother newspaper man, who I had myself served in the war, induced me to give a faithful trial to Peru-na. I did so. In a short time the blood left me, my kidneys resumed a healthy condition, and a complete cure was effected. I cannot too strongly recommend Peru-na to those suffering with kidney trouble. Today I am able to work as hard as at any time in my life, and the examiner for a leading insurance company pronounced me an "A risk."

In Poor Health Over Four Years. Pe-ru-na Only Remedy of Real Benefit.

Mr. John Nimmo, 215 Lippincott St., Toronto, Can., a prominent merchant of that city and also a member of the Masonic order, writes: "I have been in poor health generally for over four years. When I caught a cold, it settled in my bladder and kidneys, causing serious trouble. I took two greatly advertised" kidney remedies without getting desired results. Peru-na is the remedy which was really of any benefit to me. Peru-na does not cure kidney trouble nor a cold in my system."

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics. One reason why Peru-na has found so many uses in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without causing a drug habit. Peru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system and gradually eliminates causes by moving the cause of catarrh. There is a multitude of homes where Peru-na has been used and on for twenty years.
